Foreword

The class of 1943 submits as a record of the year's activities this Ulatis to our fellow students in Vacaville Union High School and to the class members and alumni now in the uniform of our country. We hope that the boys in the service may secure from this issue a glimpse of the manner in which the school has carried on during their absence.

Theme

Determined Hearts

Determined hearts firmly stand
To serve the command;
To grimly fight, to do or die,
To win the game for Vaca High.

Chins up, now, let's go,
And let them all know
That Vaca High is here to win
And claim another victory!

Senior Class History

"Determined hearts firmly stand,

To serve the command,"

With determined hearts the class of '43 entered school, eager to serve the command of their beloved teachers. They immediately won the Freshman-Sophomore Brawl. Because it was Leap Year the class gave the first Vice-Versa dance, which, of course, was an overwhelming success. As freshmen, the class participated in all school activities and proved that theirs were truly determined hearts.

"To grimly fight, to do or die

To win the game for Vaca High"

As sophomores, the class set itself to grimly fight, to do or die, and win their place in Vaca High by sponsoring a few "first" and "lasts." They sponsored the first class card party and held the first hot dog sale at the Horse Show. The class held a successful Sophomore Hop in the fall. This was the last hop which was allowed to have an orchestra. All activities for the year were outstanding financial successes.

"Chins up, now let's go,"

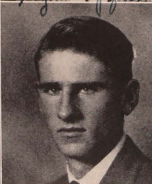

With chins up, the juniors with a hearty, "Let's Go," were off to a flying start. They chose the perpetual class rings, bearing a gold crest of the old building set on black onyx. Class numerals at the sides designate the year of the wearers. The class as usual sponsored several profitable sales; they gave a silver tea and a wonderful Junior Prom. They ended a successful year by decorating for graduation.

"And let them all know

That Vaca High is here to win

And claim another Victory!"

The seniors came back ready to "let them all know" that they were here to win and claim another victory—the final one—graduation. During the year the class successfully published the Ulati, gave the senior play and the Senior Ball. The close of the year found the seniors saddened, for the time of parting had come.

Football

In September, Coach Mitchell expressed himself as very enthusiastic over a large prospective squad of thirty-six boys who turned out for the first practice of the school year. Twelve or fifteen of them had the much-needed experience to make the season the success it turned out to be.

The boys won games against Dixon, Vallejo, the Alumni, and Benicia; they lost to Esparto, also to Armijo in a preliminary. However, in the return Armijo game, the climax of the football season, the long-fanged Bulldogs lacerated the Indians by six points and wound up a triumphant year with the enviable record of five wins and two losses.

Basketball

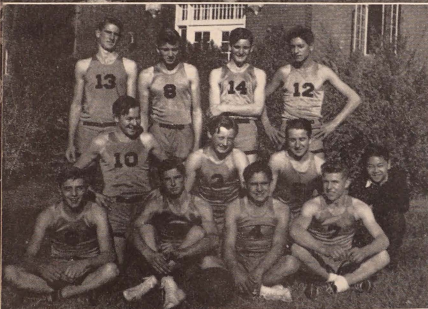

"A"

The A team was unfortunate in the early-season loss of its star player, John Ellascas, to the army; consequently, the team lost ten games and won one.

Girls' Basketball

The girls basketball season this year was played during the fall semester instead of in the spring, the reason, of course, 'being that school started so late that hockey before the rains was impossible.

In the preliminaries, the sophomores trounced the freshmen, and the seniors defeated the juniors.

The championship game was therefore played between the seniors and sophomores and ended in a tie of 30 to 30. Another game was necessary to break the tie. The play-off score was the greatest upset of the season, the seniors winning in a complete walkaway with a score of 47 to 16.

Thus the seniors added one more triumph to the long list of victories won during their four years in school.

Hockey

As sophomores the class of 1944 won the honor of being the second lower class group in the history of girls' sports to win a school championship. In order to do this, the sophomores defeated both the freshmen and the senior teams.

All girls are looking forward to next hockey season when the above team will defend its title as champion team.

Activities

Junior Red Cross

President Kathleen Goeptert
 Vice President Frank Pritchett
 Secretary Bill Solenberger
 Treasurer Greta Neil

Since all of the activities of Junior Red Cross were associated with making life more pleasant for the less fortunate, work this year was for needy children and for the armed forces. Gifts for children went to China, to Weimar Sanitarium, and to local children. For soldiers, the Junior Red Cross sent cookies and candy to Mather Field, menu covers to Pearl Harbor victims at Mare Island, and scrap books and Christmas books to men in military hospitals.

Home Economics

The Vacaville Home Economics Club started the school year with the election of officers in October. In early December the officers were installed and several new members were initiated. At a later date, the girls held a surprise party for Miss Piner.

The club gave the annual dinner for the F. F. A. boys, after which the boys did the dishes. Besides these highlights, the girls enjoyed many unscheduled good times.

The G. A. A. is a girls' athletic organization to which all girls who have 400 points, according to the G. A. A. system, are eligible.

Each fall the organization sponsors a hike which accords 100 points to any girl who takes the trip. These points start the freshmen girls toward the coveted 400 required for initiation into the organization. According to custom, at the close of the season of any one of the major sports, basketball, badminton, volleyball, hockey, there is an award banquet at which the freshmen teams are guests.

Olympia

Olympia is the highest athletic honor society for girls in school. One thousand points, according to the G. A. A. point system, are required for entrance. The purpose of this organization is to promote good sportsmanship among the girls.

The society meets once each semester for a formal initiation and banquet. At this meeting all problems are discussed regarding girls' sports, since Olympia has the power to decide on changes made in the G. A. A. award system.

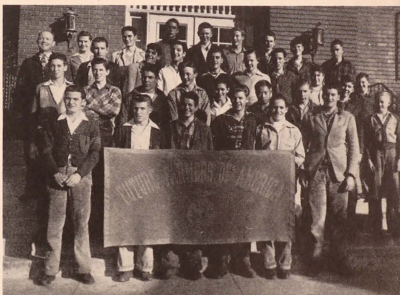

The requirements for Olympia are so high that only ten girls were made members in 1942-1943.

Future Farmers

With "Food for Victory" the slogan of the Future Farmers this year, they interested themselves not only in the hows but in the whys of producing crops and livestock. They actively assisted local farmers, and in their own projects increased production to meet war-time needs.

Members and their advisor, Mr. Mundy, also took an active part in metal salvage and in the volunteer Aircraft Warning Service.

FALL

Student Council

The Student Council, directly representing the interests of the students, is composed of the presidents of the several organizations and classes, together with the officers of the Student Body. It keeps a watchful eye on finances, initiates and discusses plans for student improvement, and keeps the machinery of student body organization functioning smoothly.

Band

The Vaca High Band began the school year with twenty-five members. Twenty beginners offered the prospect of a fine season in the making. Wartime conditions prohibited participation in out-of-town engagements, but the Band performed for the following functions: The War Scrap Drive parade, Chamber of Commerce dinners, several Parent-Teacher meetings, the Rural Music Teacher convention, and the annual Spring Music Festival.

Block "V"

Block V began the year with twenty-five members. In early November the organization initiated two new members: Bob Williams and Blanchard Rogers. Besides many friendly get-togethers, there were in December and in May formal Block V dinners. As this goes to press, the spring initiation has not yet been held, but approximately twelve athletes are eligible for membership.

Senior Play

The seniors chose for their class play "The Mummy and the Mumps," a three-act farce centered around a lost mummy discovered by the famous English archeologist, Sir Hector Fish.

Upon arrival in America, Sir Hector was put in quarantine with the mumps. He escaped in the mummy case which a porter then expressed to Fenella, an exclusive girls' college.

Sir Hector, escaping secretly from the mummy case, found Francis Briscoe impersonating him when he arrived at the college. When the mummy case was officially opened, the mummy was gone and a hunt was inaugurated that lasted until the final moments of the play.

Emily McCadden as Miss Agatha Laidlaw, founder of the most exclusive girls' school in New England, played her part like a veteran. Carmel Libonati, Kay Goepfert, and Margaret Pritchett, as college girls, all became involved in romances to Robert Taylor as William Laidlaw, to Noland Bagley as Francis Briscoe, and to Arthur Leonard as Sir Hector Fish.

Fred Bowles as the Sheriff and Bob Power as Racker, the bell boy, added much to the humor of the play, and Norine Towson as the newspaper reporter cleared some of its mysteries.

At the close of the comedy, everyone but Racker was satisfied with the solution of the many mysteries. Racker could not imagine what had become of Dooley—a name he gave to the mummy that never arrived.

Ulatis Staff

"Blood, Sweat, and Tears"—these words describe the labors of the Ulatis staff. The first impression held by staff members was that their positions meant fame and honor; however, each soon realized that his was a task of little glory and much labor.

Although there were times when the staff thought that this Ulatis would be unattainable and that it would be wise to quit while the quitting was good, at the end everyone agreed that the experience had been worth the effort and more.

When, on April first, the last of the copy went to the printer, every member of the staff felt greatly relieved. The task was complete.

The 1943 Ulatis is no longer a dream but a reality.

Hilltop Rumble Staff

The demand for a school newspaper became so great that in October it was finally decided to establish the traditional Hilltop Rumble, profits from it to go to the Benefit Fund. Under the very capable direction of Anne Mowers, editor, the paper has been a source of much pleasure to its readers.

Swing Band

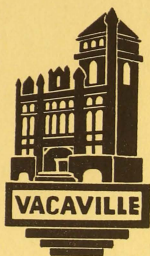

The Top Hatters, school Swing Band, were organized last year by Carlton Hanson, now serving in the armed forces.

This year Robert Damiano, drummer, has taken over the direction of the band and the group is very active. So far they have played for several private parties, school dances, a few public dances, and for local fraternal organizations. The boys also contracted to play for the Junior Prom. The money they earn is used to pay for music and band expenses.
